

University of Birmingham - University House

- Case Study

The development at the University of Birmingham continues with the design work at University House. Our sign systems feature throughout.

xsign features internal, digitally-printed sign types on acrylic panels, large cut letters, directory boards to aid wayfinding and projecting signs to help users navigate key facilities.

Our partnership with the University of Birmingham stretches over many years and we continue to support flagship developments with our capabilities in University signage systems.

